Greenwich, CT, April 25, 2018 – Headwall Partners LLC (“Headwall Partners” or “Headwall”), an independent corporate finance and strategic advisory firm focused on the steel & metals industry, was recently featured in American Metal Market in an article titled “Steel strength to drive service center M&As”.

The article discusses the trend of consolidation of the service center industry, which is largely driven by fragmentation within the sector and by the current strength of the steel industry.

“There’s a fundamental need for companies that need to grow to pursue growth avenues. What drives the timing of that growth is typically correlated with cyclicity in the industry,” commented by Peter J. Scott, Headwall’s Founder and Managing Partner, “For a buyer, it’s a good time to pursue deals because the financial performance of service centers has been improving.”
